“"The thought of building our first house seemed daunting. Jeremy was very helpful in guiding us through the entire process, from the design phase through to the finishing touches. He gave well-thought-out advice when we asked for it and independence when we did not. We really appreciated Jeremy’s attention to detail and how he would advocate for us when something was not to his or our standards. He was also very open to change throughout the construction of our home. He turned what could have been a stressful time in our lives into an enjoyable one.”
